Beyond retention

Build passion and purpose

JUNE 2022

Viktorija Kononova

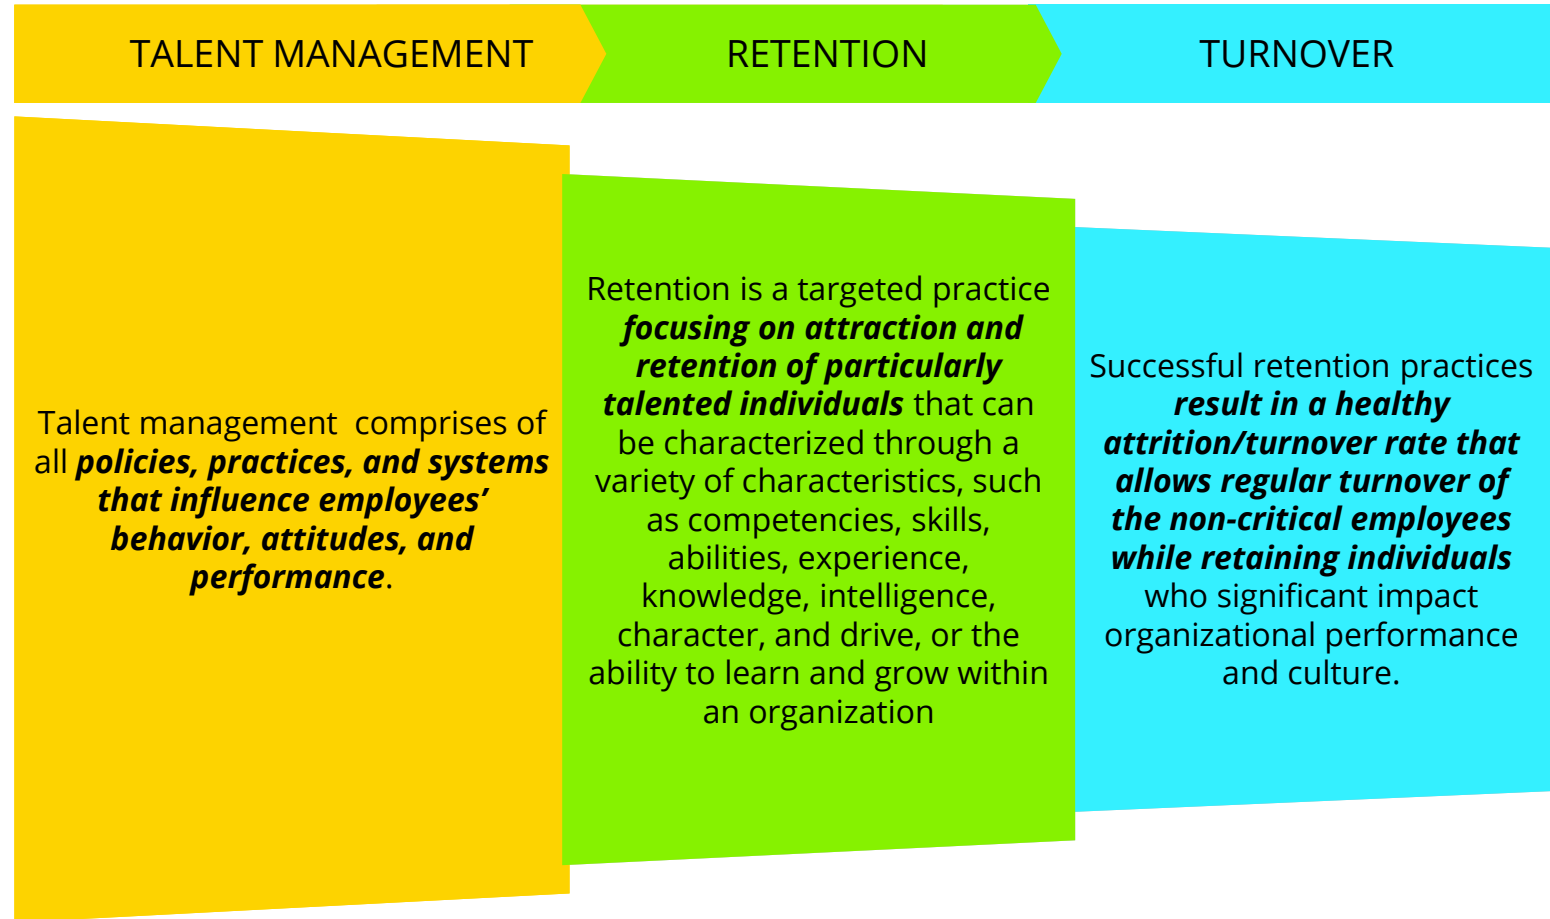

“CFO asks CEO: “What happens if we invest in developing our people and they leave?”

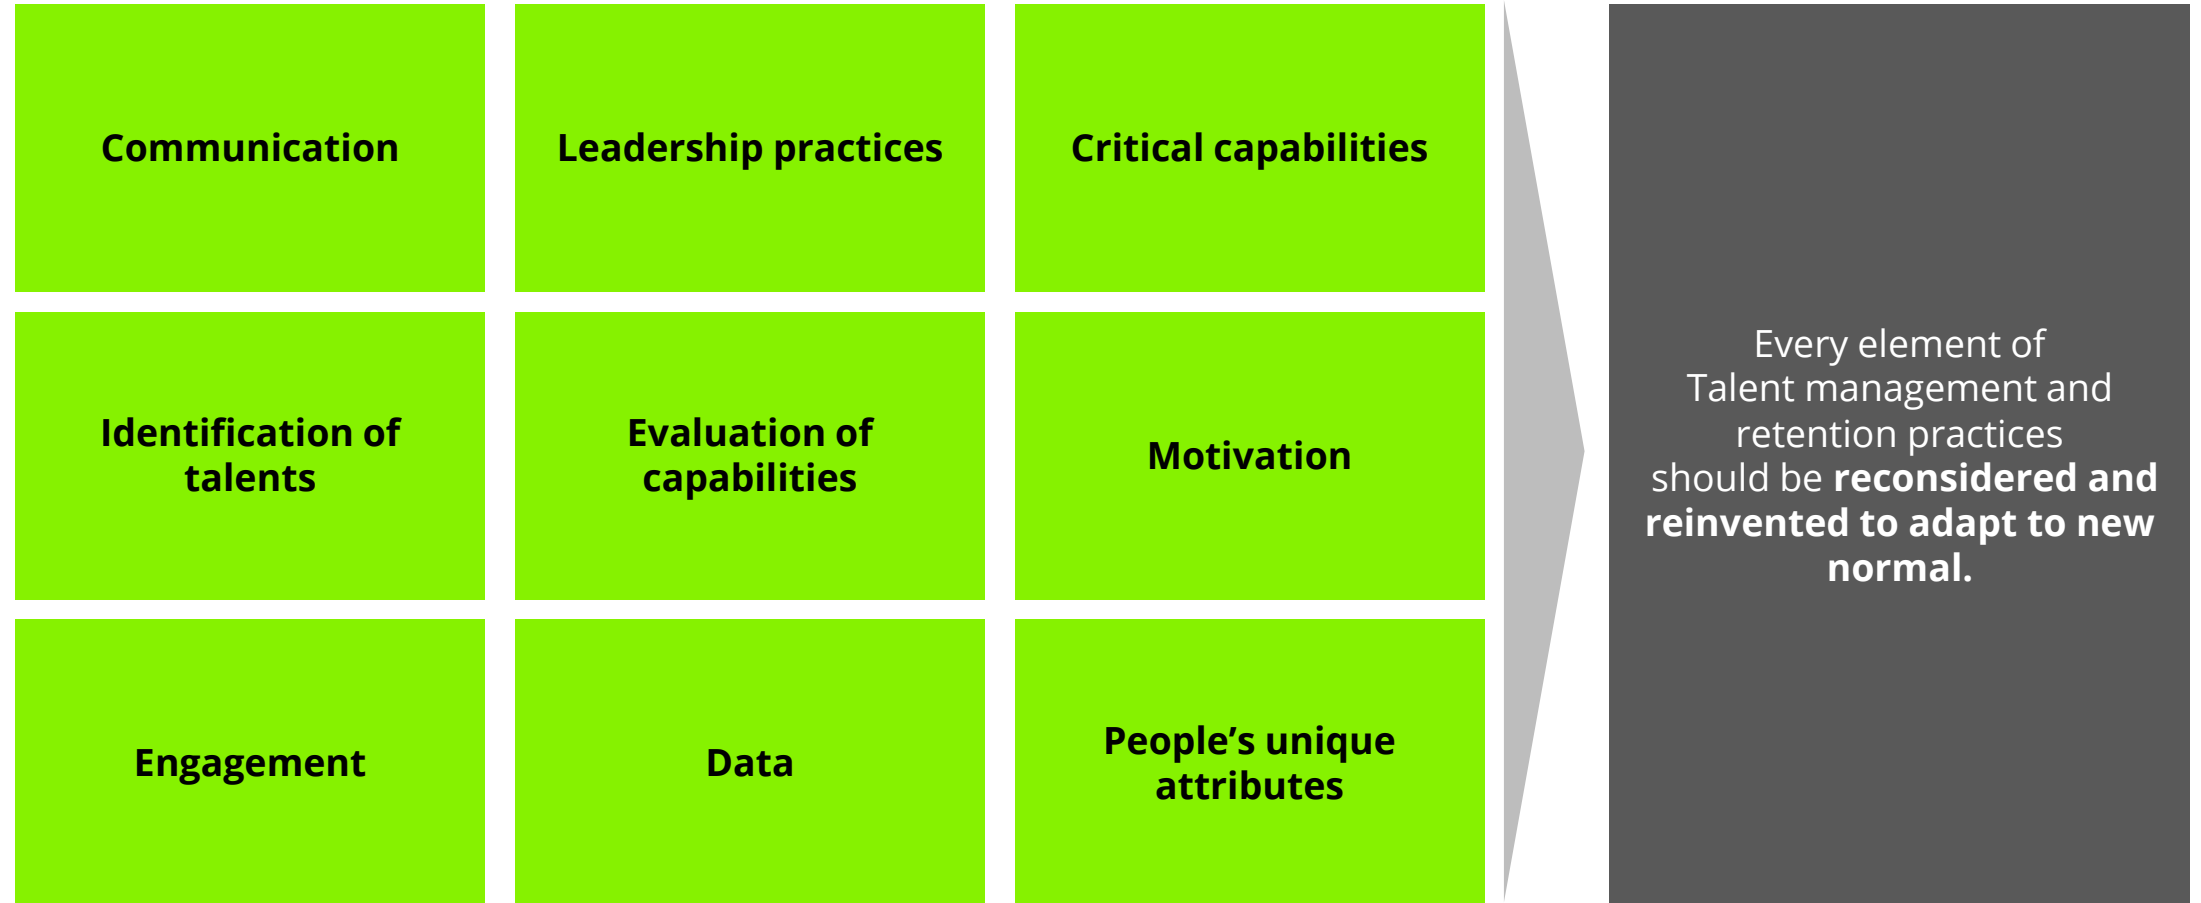

CEO: “What happens if we don’t, and they stay?””

— Source: “Peter Baeklund resourceful leadership,” <http://www.peterbaeklund.com/>.

What is retention?

How has Covid-19 influenced retention?

How far have you've come?

The first priority of the organizations during the COVID-19 pandemic has been crisis response and emphasizing health and safety, essential services, and the virtualization of work and education. As progress is made against respond efforts, another reality is forming quickly.

Now is the time for the leaders to turn their attention toward recover, to ensure their organizations are prepared to thrive. This will require extraordinary focus and coordination, during what may be a protracted period.

We see three phases that all resilient leaders must face amid the COVID-19 outbreak

Respond

Dealing with the present situation and managing continuity

Recover

Learning and emerging stronger

Thrive

Preparing for and shaping the "new normal"

How far have you've come?

How to deal with retention?

Remember: Create meaningful work	Ask your employees what matters	Build a proactive retention model to identify potential problems before they occur	Study retention continuously
Make sure the organization is feeding employees' needs for purpose and meaningful work . While there is a necessary focus on benefits, compensation, and workplace flexibility, research suggests that these are table stakes. A more important dimension for retention is the work itself.	Survey employees regularly—not just annually about how they experienced the organization over the past year, but frequently and “in the moment” through pulse surveys and roundtables—to find out what makes them passionate about work and what parts of the environment are irritating or too bureaucratic.	Adopt talent analytics to uncover the hidden drivers of retention. Several of our clients have now built statistically validated retention models that help predict why and when an employee will leave. Design work environment solution sets around the findings to drive greater performance, passion, and retention stickiness.	Keep your finger on the pulse of the organization—regularly , not just annually or periodically. Use exit surveys and manager interviews to understand what was missing. Provide open blogs and communication tools to help people talk openly about what they need— and what they particularly value.
